

CUO ORGANIZES AWARENESS CAMPAIGN IN ADOPTED VILLAGES

Central University of Orissa organized an awareness campaign in its adopted villages – Rajapalama, Nuaguda and Chakarliput on 6th May, 2018. The programme was organized by the NSS Bureau of the University. NSS volunteers conducted a door to door campaign in the villages and focused on the areas of health, sanitation and education.

Prof. Sachidananda Mohanty, Vice Chancellor, Central University of Orissa said in his message that "social and economic transformation in the adopted villages is a continuous effort. It requires developing a sense of mutual trust and understanding, which in turn will be beneficial to the society at large. As an educational institution, the University is committed to act as a facilitator in this path of development."

NSS volunteers interacted with the community and got a firsthand experience of problems plaguing the neighboring community. The campaign also aimed at inculcating a sense of responsibility among the student community who are the future of this nation. Students from various disciplines participated in this campaign and used their domain knowledge to convince the community to adopt healthy practices for their overall well being.

The programme was coordinated by NSS Programme Coordinator Shri Sujit Kumar Mohanty and he was accompanied by Dr. Aditya K Mishra, Dr. G. P. Sahu, Dr. Sagarika Mishra and Miss B Soren - faculties from various departments of the university.

The University has already undertaken various development activities in its adopted villages. With continuous help and support from district administration, the University has been successful in providing drinking water facilities by digging eight tube wells, constructing 174 latrines and providing permanent electricity in the villages of Chakarliput, Nuaguda and Balda.
